

What First Contact Physiotherapists offer you

1 Diagnosis, advice and expert management of MSK conditions

2 Increased capacity - seeing patients who would have seen the GP

3 Referrals into 2° care - track record of fewer referrals

4 Request investigations and interpret results - track record of fewer requests

5 Prescribing medicines and injecting - track record in de-prescribing

6 Autonomous practitioners, trained to identify red flags - strong safety records

7 High satisfaction rates among patients and GPs where FCPs are in post

8 Talk to patients about work and issue Fit Notes (from 1 July 22)

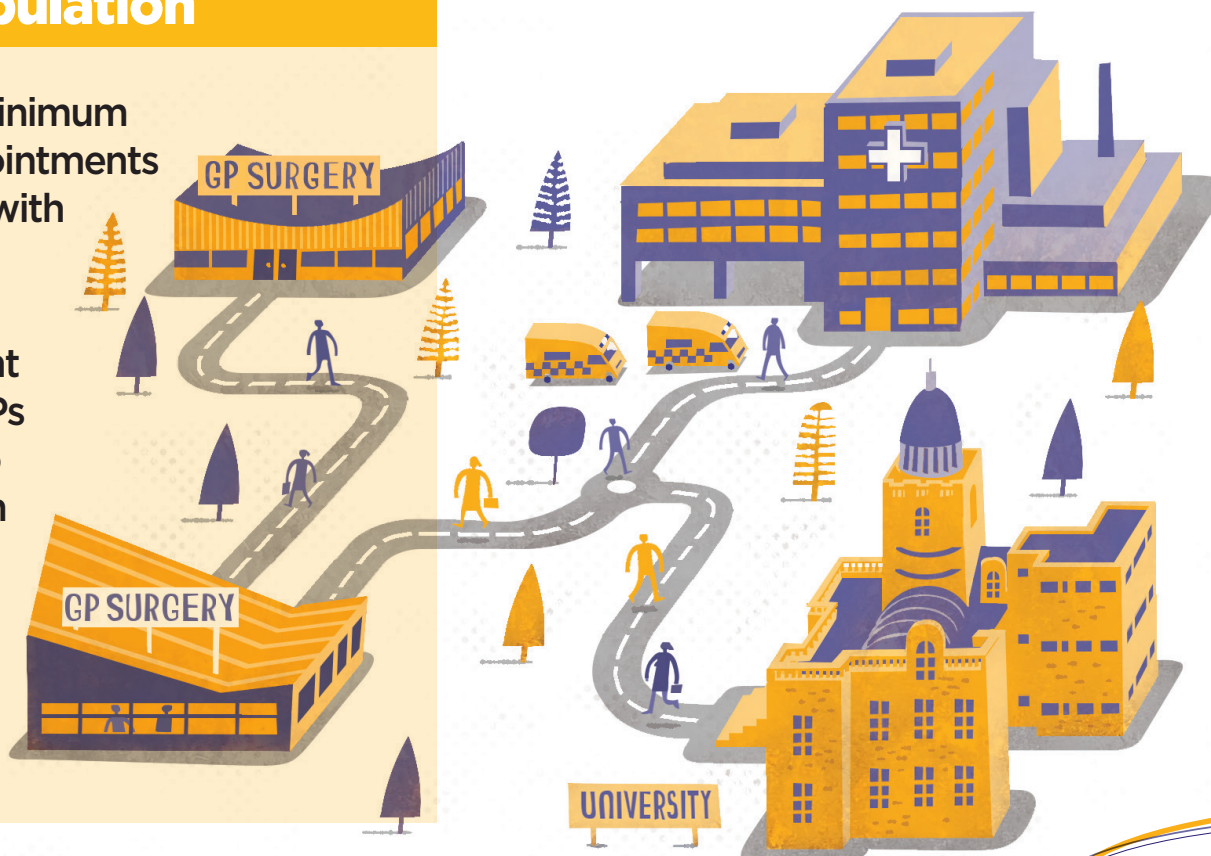

MSK First Contact Physio

Fully funded under Additional Roles Reimbursement Scheme

How to implement FCPs

Getting the right coverage for your population

- FCPs require minimum 20 minute appointments to be effective with a job plan that supports CPD
- Getting the right numbers of FCPs in proportion to local population with sufficient time is critical to realising their value.

Taking a whole systems approach

- FCPs should be an integrated part of an improved MSK pathway
- A partnership with PCNs and local MSK Providers can support clinical governance for FCPs
- If PCNs contract with current MSK Providers they don't have the additional pressures as an employer.

'FCPs are a critical component of an integrated MSK pathway across primary and community care that prioritises personalised care, supported self-management and population health.'

Andrew Bennett, National Clinical Director for MSK, NHS England

'In my view and experience FCPs are a valued and now essential member of the primary care team. The role is effective both in delivering great outcomes and experience for patients but also in our area resilience for practices. Their approach in my experience empowers patients to better self-manage their condition and become less reliant on traditional medical approaches such as analgesia.'

Dr Darren Cocker, GP Lydden Surgery, Deputy Governing Body Member Kent and Medway CCG, GP Tutor HEE

Contact us

For practical support on FCP implementation contact fcp@csp.org.uk or visit: www.csp.org.uk/fcp